AQUOL

Amazon Nail Polish Compliance Checklist

What to have in place before you list a nail polish on Amazon (U.S.)

Tick each line as you go (the boxes are clickable on screen). The right-hand column shows who usually provides it when you sell AQUOL under a brand authorization. This is a practical checklist, not legal advice; Amazon and FDA rules change, so confirm current requirements in Seller Central and on fda.gov.

1. Before you list

☐ Get the SDS (Safety Data Sheet) for every SKU. Nail polish is often sent to Amazon's dangerous-goods (hazmat) review; the SDS is what Amazon reviews.	AQUOL
☐ Check whether your account needs approval for the Beauty category or the specific listing, and keep supplier invoices ready. Amazon may ask for them.	SELLER
☐ Keep the written brand authorization from the brand owner on file, matched to the SKUs and marketplace you sell.	AQUOL
☐ Confirm the COA (Certificate of Analysis) for the batch you are buying.	AQUOL

2. Label (U.S. cosmetics)

☐ Product identity, e.g. "Nail Polish", on the front panel.	AQUOL
☐ Net quantity on the front panel, in U.S. and metric units (e.g. 0.33 fl oz / 10 mL).	AQUOL
☐ Name and place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor.	AQUOL
☐ Ingredient list in descending order of predominance, using standard (INCI) names.	AQUOL
☐ Under MoCRA: a U.S. address, phone number or electronic contact for the responsible person, so consumers can report adverse events.	AQUOL
☐ Required warnings and directions, including how to remove (alcohol pad for Long-Wear; peel for Peel-Off).	AQUOL

3. MoCRA (Modernization of Cosmetics Regulation Act)

☐ Facility registration with FDA for the manufacturing facility.	AQUOL
☐ Cosmetic product listing with FDA by the responsible person (the brand owner).	AQUOL
☐ Forward any customer report of a serious reaction to the brand owner right away. The responsible person must report serious adverse events to FDA within 15 business days.	SELLER
☐ Keep records of complaints and returns that mention a reaction.	SELLER

AQUOL

Amazon Nail Polish Compliance Checklist (continued)

What to have in place before you list a nail polish on Amazon (U.S.)

4. Your listing copy

☐	Describe the base exactly as the label does: wear time, air-dry, removal method.	SELLER
☐	Avoid drug-type claims ("strengthens", "repairs", "treats fungus", "promotes growth"). They can turn a cosmetic into a drug in FDA's eyes.	SELLER
☐	Avoid unsupported safety claims ("non-toxic", "chemical-free", "safe in pregnancy") and "X-free" claims unless you have the brand owner's documented support.	SELLER
☐	Use real photos and say "no UV lamp" and "no filing" only for products that are air-dry and remove as stated.	SELLER

5. FBA and account

☐	Follow Amazon's current prep rules for liquids and glass (protective packaging, FNSKU labels). AQUOL packs FBA-ready on request.	BOTH
☐	Check Amazon's current commercial liability insurance requirement; Amazon requires it once your sales pass a monthly threshold.	SELLER
☐	If you ship to California, ask the brand owner whether any Proposition 65 warning applies to a SKU.	BOTH
☐	Store documents by SKU and batch (SDS, COA, INCI, label, authorization) so you can answer Amazon or a customer within a day.	SELLER

Selling AQUOL? We supply the AQUOL column.

SDS, COA per batch, INCI list, label artwork, MoCRA listing and a written brand authorization.

From 100 units per SKU. Ask for the document pack before you order.

aquol.co/amazon-sellers/ · sales@aquol.co · WhatsApp +1 (307) 533-0268